Bruce, thank you for the information. With regards to the cylinder, it will be moved to a secure location tomorrow. The Great Lakes Rep that Paul Kahn has been speaking with (Richard Heinrich) has stated that he would like the lot # number on the cylinder, with this number he will be able to identify the dimensions of the cylinder, which is needed for shipment. We will be able to get the lot number when the cylinder is moved tomorrow. We will also try to approximate the amount of material that is in the cylinder either by weight or with use of a thermal camera. The REOC to this point has only been in contact with Mr. Heinrich, and only with regards to the packaging and return of the cylinder. Moving forward Paul Kahn will continue to be the POC (with me as a back-up) for the transport of both the St. Thomas and St. Croix cylinders. Should the need arise to contact Great Lakes/Chemtura on another matter we will be sure to call Mr. Gustavsen

As for sampling of the cylinder, the exact date of when it will be sampled is unknown, that is up to CID. But it will not be this week. Additionally, we will only arrange for transport off island when CID/DOJ has completed their work.

Feel free to call either Paul Kahn or myself if you have any questions.
